HE MASTERED THEIR MIRTH.

How Mr. Kendal Saved a Pathetic Situation From Becoming Farcical.

The self control and ready wit of Mr. Kendal, the actor, prevented one of the most affecting situations in "The Ironmaster," when he was playing in the Harlem Opera House, from degenerating into a broad burlesque.

It was during the first scene of the final act. Philippe Derbley, seated in his study in the early morning hours, has just finished the sealing of his last will and testament preparatory to fighting a duel with the Duc de Bligny. His old family lawyer, who is his sole companion during the midnight vigil, advances toward him and says with much feeling:

"I'm only a crusty old lawyer, whose emotions have long been buried under legal formulas and documents, but deep down in my breast, under all the musty old parchments, I have a heart, and tonight it is aching for you."

The audience was very quiet. Only here and there a half suppressed snivel betrayed the emotion of some feminine theater goer not yet thoroughly blase to stage influences. Then from away up in the darkened tiers of the upper gallery came the long drawn infantile wail of a very young baby. The mother had brought the child to the theater, and it had slept peacefully all through the earlier acts of the drama, only to awake and register its stout lunged protest during one of the most touching situations of the play.

The transformation was complete. The quiet of the attentive audience was broken by a titter of merriment that soon grew into a general guffaw, while the wailing infant struck a still higher key and continued to wail.

Had Philippe Derbley or his old family barrister permitted the slightest upward curl of the corners of his lips at that critical moment the audience would have been hopelessly disillusionized for the rest of the night. But the Ironmaster was equal to the emergency. Instead of taking up his "cue" directly, he bent his head toward the old lawyer with a face so serious that the laughter was half checked already. Then he grasped the hands of the old man, folding him in a tender but manly embrace. Neither spoke for fully 45 seconds, but it was all so natural that at the end of that time there was not a suspicion of merriment left. The actor had regained control without speaking a word. Again he had his audience firmly in hand.

Meantime the baby whose nap had been disturbed had been carried out by its indignant mother. Then came the dramatic interview between Derbley and his estranged wife, and at the close of the scene Mr. Kendal was given one of the most enthusiastic curtain calls of his entire engagement.—New York Herald.

Artist and Artiste.

Let us consider for a moment a singular abuse of language. It is a fashion now to speak of Mr. Swett as an "artist," and of Miss Sweet as an "artiste," and thus grammatical tribute is paid to sex. Now, the word "artist" in English, as in French, is both masculine and feminine. Mr. Swett, the accomplished thunderer at the piano, is an "artiste," and Miss Sweet is an "artist," so far as any distinction of sex is concerned. But nine out of ten who employ these words believe that "artiste" is distinctly and distinctively feminine.

The word "artiste" was introduced into the English language in consequence of "the modern tendency to restrict 'artist' to those engaged in the fine arts, and especially painting." Artiste means a public performer who appeals to the æsthetic faculties, as a professional singer, dancer, etc., also one who makes a "fine art" of his employment, as an artistic cook, hairdresser, etc.—Boston Journal.

How Mills Cools Off.

Senator Mills of Texas loses his temper easily, is a very nervous man, and when wrought up it takes a long time for him to cool off. He has a peculiar habit of "resting himself," as he calls it. When he gets angry or "tired," he will start out to walk, and his greatest delight is climbing stairs. He plunges along rapidly until he reaches the top of the building, then turns and descends. Then he crosses to the opposite wing of the capitol and repeats the same performance. He never allows himself to speak to any one when in these moods and rushes along with head down and hands deep in his trousers pockets.—Chicago Herald.

Pineapple Vinegar.

Pineapple vinegar in color resembles that of amber, and it is as clear as sherry wine. Its odor is delightful and refreshing, and its flavor is unparalleled by any other vinegar. It cannot readily be described, but if once tasted it is not easily forgotten, and those who have sampled it pronounce it delicious and unequaled by anything of the kind that has ever been tested. It is entirely free from adulteration and is nothing but the pure juice of pineapples converted into pure vinegar.—Arcadia (Fla.) Arcadian.

The Same Everywhere.

In many parts of Germany the hardest outdoor work falls to the women. Well, is not the same true in America? Who does the shopping here?—Boston Transcript.

How Musicians Excite Ridicule.

"A musician would ridicule the attempt of a dog to sing a song, yet it never occurs to him that he oftentimes makes himself just as ridiculous," said a musician. "Musicians as a class seem to have a tendency for speculation born in them. Whether it is caused by a desperate desire for riches, which they realize can never be obtained in their profession, or from dealing so much in notes, I cannot say, but the fact remains. This is peculiar, too, for of all persons who have to go in the business world the musician is the most unfit to speculate. He is the most lamblike lamb that the wolf can find. He takes his fate smilingly and uses his experience for inspiration when playing in the minor.

"During the oil speculation some years ago I was simply wild to put into oil the little pile of money I had acquired by hard and laborious teaching. I dreamed of the fortune it would bring me. Elated with the idea, I went to my father, who, much to my disgust then, but to my betterment since, frowned down the idea. I remember the words he spoke: 'Young man, you are a musician, not a speculator. The only oil you have any right to deal with is that which comes out of the sound holes of your violin.' If I had taken his advice, I would have a few more dollars to my credit than I have today."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Undertaker Blushed.

Undertaker Rollins once blushed, and blushed in open court at that. Coroner Martin put in a bill for services rendered a man named Parker, who died of morphine poisoning. To prove that he did $50 worth of work the doctor had three brother physicians testify. Undertaker Rollins said that $50 was dear for the job, and that the man was beyond all aid of recovery when the coroner reached his bedside. The last resort—the battery—had been applied for half an hour before the coroner arrived, without other result than to prove that Parker was dead.

"So you say the body did not move when the battery was applied, do you?" asked Attorney Bottom, who represented Martin.

"I do, sir," was the reply.

"As an undertaker you did not want to see it move, did you?" was the next query.

There was no reply. Mr. Rollins was blushing so fiercely he scorched his mustache, but he laughed as loud as any of them when the court gave the signal to smile.—Denver Republican.

Frost Makes Sugar.

The influence of frost in changing the chemical character of fruits and vegetables has attracted no great attention, but is just now being made a subject of scientific investigation. It has long been known that in some mysterious way frost is an element in the successful production of maple sugar. Observant cooks know that potatoes lightly frozen—not enough to totally destroy them—have a sweetness wholly foreign to those which have been wholly secure from frost. Those who have had experience with persimmons well know how astringent they are before frosted and how sweet and delicious they are after the first frost. A new fact has recently been added in connection with the famous canaigre roots of the north of Mexico, which are found to contain so much tannin as to threaten to drive tree barks wholly out of use. After being frozen, however, there is not the slightest trace of tannin left. How frost acts in bringing about the change has not been determined.—Independent.

Artificial Teeth.

Inasmuch as real teeth are so easily lost, it is a comfort to know that artificial ones cost only 15 to 18 cents each at the manufacturer's. One maker in New York sells 8,000,000 teeth every year. They are porcelain, composed chiefly of kaolin. The enamel is put on with metallic oxides, the process being so delicate that no two teeth are exactly alike in coloring. After being finished thousands of them are taken together and matched in shades. There are 50 different shades, corresponding to variations in the coloring of natural teeth. Defects are often made in false teeth so as to render them more deceptive to the eye. The best plates are of rubber. Celluloid is the prettiest material for the purpose, but it does not resist the acids of the mouth. —Providence Journal.

The Case Was Clear to Him.

"Here's a sad account of the suicide of a young man," said Mrs. Hen Peck, who was reading the paper. "No reason is known for the self murder, and what makes it more inexplicable he was to have been married the very next day."

"No reason known, eh?" replied Mr. Hen Peck as he reached for his hat and started for the door. "The case is perfectly clear to me. The poor fellow was desperate, and of two evils he chose the less."

Before his wife could reply Mr. Peck was safe on the sidewalk and walking briskly down the street.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

His Position.

"What was at the bottom of that fight between Thompson and Jimpson?"

"Jimpson was till Thompson was pulled off."—Indianapolis Journal.

India's Venomous Snakes.

Altogether about 30,000 persons die each year in India from the bites of the various snakes I have mentioned, and it is no exaggeration to say that some 60 of Queen Victoria's subjects who were alive and well yesterday are today being burned or buried out there as a sequel to these accidents. The same will happen tomorrow and the next day, and at least one death from similar causes may be expected to occur every half hour between now and the time that the readers peruse what I have written. Mortality of this magnitude is a terrible thing, though the fact must be remembered that it is distributed among a population four times as large as that of the United States and thus passes to a great extent unnoticed.

The casualties are confined almost entirely to the poorer and more ignorant natives, who habitually go about with bare feet, for, although creatures like the hamadryas and the echis are occasionally spoiling for a fight, as a general rule a snake is no more anxious to be trodden upon than a man is to tread upon him. The consequence is that people who wear boots are hardly ever bitten. This is not so much because of the protection of the leather as on account of the noise made by a boot upon the ground, which warns the snake to get out of the way.—McClure's Magazine.

This Big Country of Ours.

"A man can't take a trip across this big country," said a reverend traveler, "without finding out, in more ways than one, something refreshing about the size of the land of the free. I spent a couple of the most delightful weeks in beautiful Denver and was quite taken with the restaurants there. It seemed to be just the thing for one stranger to engage in conversation with another, and I had many a pleasant, chatty time over the table.

"On the last day I spent in the high city, in talking with a bright looking resident who, following custom, took his meals at a restaurant, I naturally inquired, 'Do you come from the east?' 'Oh, yes,' he replied, 'I am an eastern man.'

"'From where do you come?' was my second natural question. 'From Topeka,' was the answer, given with calm assurance. Since then I have been wondering if I lived in the east, west, or in what part of the vast country I did live."—Philadelphia Call.

A Costly Position.

People do not realize that it costs a great deal of money for an officer of the army or navy to comply with the regulation as to dress. He must have the same amount of civilian clothes as an ordinary citizen to wear when he is off duty. Then he must have a fatigue uniform, which costs him never less than $45, and usually more, a dress uniform, which costs at least $100 and a special full dress, worth from $125 to $150, and an overcoat, costing from $50 to $60. He is required to have a number of caps and hats with plumes and that sort of thing, which cost $5 to $50. His epaulets cost him from $25 to $50, his sword and his belts from $50 to $65 and various other little fixings that are quite expensive. At the beginning of his service it usually costs an officer of the army or navy from $600 to $750 to get his outfit of clothing, and whenever a change is made in the regulations concerning uniforms of course the expense is renewed.—Exchange.

Theatrical Note.

The young man who thinks he knows a whole lot and wears a blue bow necktie with a shirt stud screwed into it for a scarfpin was talking to the clerk at the hotel he was patronizing.

"Anything good at the theater this week?" he inquired, with the air of a connoisseur.

"Yes. One of Frohman's New York companies is here."

"What piece are they playing?"

"They appear in repertory."

"What's that?" he asked, cocking his head over to be sure of what he was going to hear.

"They appear in repertory," repeated the clerk.

"Um—um—I never heard of that piece. Is it any good?"

The clerk assured him that it was a corker and then retired to a safe place where he might smile and enjoy himself.—Detroit Free Press.

Temper.

If you want to live to be 100, keep your temper. Never mind where you keep it, only don't let it see the light o' day, and the chances are longevity for you. Some of us do not consider age worth the price, for there is a good deal of the Greek in our compositions in spite of the mixture of races, and we Americans would rather die young than never have a tantrum or a "crise des nerfs," as they say in French. Righteous anger is a good thing. It generally purifies the atmosphere, even if it does take an hour or so off the allotted span.—Boston Herald.

Modern Modesty.

Employer—Want to marry my daughter, eh? And next, I suppose, you'll want your salary raised so that you can support her!

Employee—Oh, no, sir! I shall expect you to support us both.—Kate Field's Washington.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

President Cleveland has decided to appoint an arbitration commission to settle the great labor strike question in order to prevent further destruction of life and property. This news will be heralded with joy by millions of people in the United States who have been made innocent sufferers in the fight between Pullman and his striking employes. So far Grover Cleveland has been true to his country, even though his Attorney General has been a little off color. In proclaiming martial law a few days ago he displayed a patriotism that ought to be upheld by every true American citizen that has his country at heart, no matter whether he sympathizes with labor in its struggle for an existence or stands in with corporations, be he Republican or Democrat. In a struggle like the present one we must not forget that we are all Americans—that the Republic and the rights of its people must be upheld at all hazards. In submitting the labor strike to arbitration, after quieting the country down through the strong arm of martial law, the President has shown himself to be both wise and patriotic. Grover, old boy, a Republican editor doffs his hat to you.

"My little boy was very bad off for two months with diarrhœa. We used various medicines, also called in two doctors, but nothing done him any good until we used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which gave immediate relief and soon cured him. I consider it the best medicine made and can conscientiously recommend it to all who need a diarrhœa or colic medicine. J. E. Hare, Trenton, Texas. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers."

THE WARRENS OF EL VERANO.

Their Family Rows Transferred to the Hen City.

W. E. Warren, formerly a photographer of El Verano, was arrested one day last week in Petaluma for beating his wife. The Warrens have a photograph gallery in that town, where they are temporarily stopping. Warren and his wife while residing in this valley lived a sort of a cat and dog life owing to the intemperance of the former. This is not the first beating she has received at his hands, and she is a long-suffering woman. A few years ago at a Fireman's ball in this place Warren assaulted his wife in the ball room. He was promptly ejected and upon reaching the sidewalk was given a sound threshing by two firemen, members of the ball committee, who did not approve of his conduct.

Warren was arraigned before Judge Scudder and a jury last Tuesday. Attorney Rodgers appeared for the defense and F. A. Meyer for the prosecution.

The prosecution opened the case with the complaining witness, who has been married to Warren for fourteen years, who, she said is a good provider, but the trouble is all because he insisted she disown her brother. The husband and wife signed an agreement not long ago, and in it he was to give up drinking liquor and she to give up visiting her brother, Mr. Avery. He broke the agreement first.

"On the morning of the 5th inst., she said, "we were in the kitchen and the direct cause of his beating me was a quarrel over his asking me to bake bread. I raised my hands and said I had a notion to use the bread knife on him, and he choked my throat and beat my face until interfered with by Mr. Blackburn.".

John and Allen Blackburn testified to separating the husband and wife who were fighting and very excited. They did not think Warren intoxicated.

The defendant's testimony stated that he was in fear when he struck his wife, and that she has been provoking a quarrel ever since the agreement she spoke of was made.

Mr. Soddard, an employee in Warren's photograph tent, testified that in living with the couple, he had found Warren to be always a willing and loving husband, but for a reason he did not know about, Mrs. Warren was very cold toward her husband. Mr. Soddard got mixed up and proved an unwilling witness for the prosecution.

Richard Skinner testified that while Mrs. Warren lived in the vicinity of his house she once said: "If I could get my husband to harm my boy or me I would have him just where I want him."

The defendant was found guilty and recommended to the mercy of the court and was fined $5.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Antonio Castagnasso, Overcome by Heat, Drops Dead.

Antonio Castagnasso, father of Henry Castagnasso, the well-known vegetable dealer of this place, died very suddenly last Monday morning at 7 o'clock.

The morning being excessively warm, the deceased, who was 76 years of age, and lived with his son, complained of the heat and went outside the house for relief. A short time after he was seen to fall by two employees of his son, who went to the old man's assistance. When they reached him he was lying prone on his back, and after gasping a few times immediately expired.

An inquest was held on Monday afternoon by acting Coroner Cheney and the following jurors were empannelled to inquire into the cause of death: O. W. Brown, Jr., L. Litzius, G. W. Clark, W. E. Thomas, D. Calloway, Joe. Lewis, D. D. Davisson, A. G. Bulotti and J. S. Young.

After hearing the testimony of Dr. W. H. Sullivan, P. Baccala and others, the jury rendered a verdict that the deceased was a native of Italy, aged 76 years and came to his death from natural causes.

The Democratic County Central Committee met in Santa Rosa last Tuesday for the purpose of making arrangements for holding a primary election to choose delegates to the County Convention.

On motion the polls for holding the primary election are to be open from 1 P. M. to 5 P. M., in all precincts except East Redwood, where the polls shall be open from 2 P M. until sunset.

A motion was made that Healdsburg be selected as the place for holding the convention. The motion was amended to change the same to Santa Rosa. A motion was made to amend the amendment to the motion to change the place to Sebastopol. Another motion was made to change the place to Sonoma. The roll was called to select the place for holding the convention which resulted as follows: Santa Rosa, 2; Sebastopol, 4; Healdsburg 7; Sonoma, 2, total, 15. There being no selection the chair ordered a new roll-call, the result of which was as follows: Santa Rosa, 8; Healdsburg, 7, total vote called. 15. Santa Rosa was declared selected as the place for holding the county convention.

A motion was made by R. F. Bailey that the test for voting at the primary elections be as follows: "Did you vote for Grover Cleveland?"

After some informal talk the convention adjourned. There was excellent feeling and much interest in the meeting.

SONOMA MINERAL DISPLAY.

Wins Third Premium at the Midwinter Fair.

The Sonoma mineral display which was placed in the State's mineral exhibit at the Midwinter Fair by E. K. Stevenot, the well-known mining engineer of this city, and Mineral Commissioner for this county, in a contest with the other counties of the State, has been awarded by the Judges of Mineral Awards the third premium for the best and most valuable display from a commercial standpoint.

The exhibit was composed for the most part of cinnabar, native quicksilver ores and retorted quicksilver from the Great Eastern Quicksilver Mine and from Pine Flat, basalt blocks for paving and building purposes from Sonoma and vicinity, tiling from Guerneville, plastic clay for terra cotta purposes from Capt. Boyes' place near Sonoma, silicate of alumina for making aluminum, terra cotta, polish powder and fire-proof material from Sonoma Valley, bituminous coal from Cloverdale, chromite or chrome iron ore from Asti and Healdsburg, with the different products manufactured from it such as chrome colors, etc., which are used in painting, dyeing and for electric purposes.

There was also exhibited a specimen of roof tiling from the old Sonoma Mission, which had been in use for over half of a century, which went to show the lasting qualities of Sonoma Valley clay. Petrified mushrooms in a matrix of crystals of silica were also displayed.

This mineral exhibit which carried off third premium was collected, set up, managed and attended to by Mr. Stevenot at the small cost of $16, which was donated by a few enterprising citizens of Sonoma and Mr. A. Sbarbro of the Italian Swiss Colony at Asti, who contributed about one-third of the amount.

Mr. Stevenot also received valuable aid from the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company, who transported the minerals to and from the Fair gratis.

The Sonoma House, Harry Fisheer proprietor, is a popular resort for commercial travelers. *

CALLED To FINAL REST.

Peaceful Death of Mrs. Eva Duggan at the Union Hotel.

Residents of Sonoma will read with sorrow and regret the announcement of the death of Mrs. Eva Lascy Duggan, who passed away to eternal rest last Monday evening. Six months ago this estimable young lady came to Sonoma for the benefit of her health, but the germs of consumption had became so deeply rooted in her constitution that the best medical service and the ministrations of loving hands were unavailing. From day to day she faded gradually until death came as peacefully as slumbers. Funeral services were held at the Union Hotel Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Chase of the Congregational Church officiating. The following day services were also held at the home of the deceased in San Francisco, after which the remains were temporarily placed in the receiving vault at the Odd Fellows Cemetery. Within a short time the remains will be interred in the shaded little cemetery at West Point, Calaveras county, that town being Mrs. Duggan's birthplace. The deceased was twenty-two years of age, the daughter Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lascy and sister of Mrs. Emma Jones and Al Enke of the Union Hotel. In San Francisco, where the deceased was educated, she leaves a wide circle of friends who deeply mourn her loss. Inheriting the disposition of her parents, she was of a most charitable and affectionate disposition and to know her was to love her. Her humble qualities endeared her to all her relatives and friends. She was highly accomplished and an exquisite pianist.

The principal topic of conversation in this place is the great strike, the merits of which is thoroughly discussed.

A picnic will be held here Sunday, July 29th, under the auspices of the Hebrew associations of San Francisco.

We are pleased to state that Mrs. M. Justi, who has been lying seriously ill at her home near town, is gradually improving.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1894.

THE ELECTRICIAN'S AFFLICTION.

They roused him with farads, they roused him with dynes,
They roused him with quegergs and mhos,
They roused him with ohms of five different kinds,
And they asked him which unit he chose.

When at length he sat up and was able to chat,
His friends kindly offered to show 'im
The difference 'twixt chemic and true quega-watt
And relation of Kapp lines to ohm.

But the 'trician said, "No," he was done with the mho,
And farads and barads as well,
And quegergs and kilogram kines, too, might go,
So they gave him a rest for a spell.

Then they told him of webers, of oersteds and gausses,
Of gilberts, called gilbs, as we're taught to,
And another new unit whose contraction allows us
To speak of as "hen," had we ought to?

There's the hen, legal hen, mille-hen and hen-meter,
The franklin, or frank, if you choose;
The board of trade unit and kilogram-meter,
And microboles handy to use.

There's the force-de-cheval, French for H. P., you know,
But quite different in value you'll say,
And the five kinds of ohms, as we'll presently show,
Though unlike, are in full use today.

There's the ohm international and ohm miscalled "true,"
And the ohm christened B. A., O Lord!
And the legal or French ohm, of which there are two,
Which in values in no way accord.

Then there's five volts in a batch, and five watts to match,
Which need caution when of them you treat,
And another odd unit the tyro should catch—
The mechanical equivalent of heat.

In foot-pounds we formerly measured the latter
By seven hundred and seventy and two,
But Rowland found later it should be made greater,
And fifty-five hundredths would do.

The standards of light are perplexing to handle,
Nor as yet can we fully decide
'Twixt Hefner and Carcel and decimal candle
And other new units beside.

Numerics and wards, and the French bougie meter,
And of candle foot units we've read;
Lines of force per square foot, lines of force per square meter,
Ampere turns till you wish yourself dead.

But the 'trician, oppressed at the length of this tale,
In pain threw his hands in the air.
Then his eye became dim and his face deadly pale,
And he fell in a fit of despair.

They roused him with secohms, they roused him with dynes,
With meter-gram-seconds and such,
And with begohms-begobs and brico-bootshines,
But these compounds, alas! proved too much.
—Electricity.

Modern Gold Mining.

The quartz is taken from the mine, sorted and then hauled to the stamping machine. Here the ore is crushed and pounded as fine as flour. It is then run through a sluice box that contains quicksilver. As the water carries the ore over the "quick" it is taken up and held by the mercury and forms an amalgam. The quicksilver is then placed in a retort and brought to the boiling point. The "quick" passes out of a retort through a tube and is collected in a basin of water, and hardly a bit has been lost, while the gold remains in the retort in the shape of gold dust and is now ready for market. Only about 50 per centum of the gold is saved by this means, and those who can or have ore rich enough to justify it send it to the smelters, where 95 per centum is saved.—New York World.

The French Barometer.

The French aneroid barometer is a beautiful thing to look upon, but the showiest of these instruments are not the best, and some of the nickel plated affairs that glisten in the windows of opticians are useless for the purposes for which they were designed. A great French geographer, who measured mountain heights in the Catskills, is said to have used instruments not of French manufacture. The best aneroids are so sensitive that they will change for each floor of an ordinary dwelling, though readings for such slight changes of elevation cannot be depended upon for accuracy.—New York Sun.

There are scores of fruitstands in New York which are never closed night or day from one year's end to another's. These are run by Italians, and as a rule the different members of the owner's family relieve each other at stated intervals.

FUTURE OF THE HORSE.

It Is Foretold That He Will Cease to Be a Beast of Burden.

There was a time when the wiry thoroughbred of English breeding and perhaps the Arabian barb were looked to as the surest means for improving the common stock of horseflesh. Consul General Judd reports from Austria-Hungary that the American trotter is now the favorite breed in use for improving the native blood. If Austria-Hungary cannot do better than to come to America for this purpose, it argues well for the superiority of the trotter.

As a beast of speed the distinctive trotter is an example of modern evolution. It is not many years since a speed of three minutes for a mile was reckoned good at a trotting gait. Now there is hardly a farmer's son in the country that does not own a colt that "can clip a mile in three minutes and not turn a hair," at least so the young man says. A speed of two minutes is not only possible, but probable in the immediate future, and the time may not be far off when the American horse can trot alongside the best Derby runner.

With the constant inroads of machinery on the field of the horse's usefulness a change is coming in the evolution of the animal. Already electricity supplants the old horse cars, and no one is sorry. One need have no sympathy for the overburdened fluid on a hard grade. An electric van for parcel delivery is working in London and is said to be cheaper than horse power. Promises have already been made by our inventors of electric plows, and feasible plans for freight and produce tramways across the country on roads hitherto traversed only by the aid of the horse or mule are suggested. The old fashioned horsepower for running incidental machinery is giving place to the "coming power."

The coming horse is to be less and less a beast of heavy burden. Many places there are where horses will continue to drag heavy loads of a necessity. The handsome draft horse is not yet entirely to be dispensed with. But pleasure driving will continue to give a motive for the improvement of the trotting horse. The bicycle takes the place of a few saddle horses perhaps, but the majority of cyclers care for a horse just as much as before the silent steed came into being. Many of them own a wheel who would not own a horse, but the wheel, even if built for two, is not so agreeable after all as holding the lines behind a glossy coated, lightly stepping horse. Electric motors for carriages are talked of, but they will be expensive for a long time yet, and until their proficiency is somewhat advanced from the present stage a man even with a balky horse would be less helpless in case of accident.

The noble, intelligent horse will not be lost sight of in the advance of civilization. Relief from the heavier duties will leave the more energy for the driving, of which every American citizen of means and leisure is fond. Whatever question there may be as to the morality or advantages of horse racing, the improvement of the trotter has made the animal more serviceable for the legitimate uses of man. If any one believes that the interest in the horse is to give place before the inroads of electricity, let him attend some great "horse convention" and note the attention paid the splendid specimens of endurance and intelligence there on exhibition. —Boston Journal.

Drinking From a Lady's Shoe.

In London a century ago it was no uncommon practice on the part of the "fast men" to drink bumpers to the health of a lady out of her shoe. The Earl of Cork relates an incident of this kind, and to carry the compliment still further he states that the shoe was ordered to be dressed and served up for supper. "The cook set himself seriously to work upon it. He pulled the upper part, which was of fine damask, into fine shreds and tossed it up into a ragout, minced the sole, cut the wooden heel into thin slices, fried them in batter and placed them round the dish for garnish. The company testified their affection for the lady by eating heartily of this exquisite impromptu." Within the last score of years, at a dinner of Irish squires, the health of a beautiful girl, whose feet were as pretty as her face, was drunk in champagne from one of her satin shoes, which an admirer of the lady had contrived to obtain possession of.—Newark News.

Another Kind.

It was about 10:30 p. m. and the young woman was talking to the man in the case.

"What I like in a man," she was saying, "is energy—one that has some go in him."

The young man glanced hastily at the clock, then at the door, then at the girl and got up.

"I beg your pardon," she said, blushing. "You may stay as long as you please. You are the first man that ever understood that statement properly."—Detroit Free Press.

The Convincing Argument.

Young Lady Shopper—This piece of dress goods suits me, except that I do not think the figure in it is pretty.

Subtle Salesman—Ah, but you surely will when it is made up and you have the dress on.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Hazel Creek, April 14, '94.

* * * I am more than pleased with it—delighted. The place seems to me to embody all available points for a camp—dry, firm soil, good water (the very best), fine chances for drainage, and scenery unsurpassable. The view of Mt. Shasta is one of the very best to be had from any point; it is visible from every part of the ground. The view of the Crags also is fine. The general environment is of the best. It is an oval-shaped amphitheater, three miles long by one-fourth to ¾ of a mile wide, with receding walls two to three thousand feet in height, with lines and shades of beauty at every reach. I doubt if a better place can be found in all Northern California.
